The Frater shares updates about the Fraternity and showcases the amazing ways our Brothers are making a difference. It is a result and a culmination of the Brotherhood and teamwork all of us experienced as undergraduates.

In addition to the Frater, please check the pilambdaphi.org website and the Pi Lambda Phi Facebook page for regular updates. Please share your experiences and thoughts, as we want to share your experiences with our entire Brotherhood.

FROM the IEC PRESIDENT

Dear Brothers:
I just returned from dropping my daughter off at the University of Illinois for the third time. Being at my alma mater at the beginning of the fall semester makes me think of all the great times I had while in school. As I consider these thoughts further, I realize many of the great times involved Pi Lambda Phi. I say many instead of all, because I dated my wife while at Illinois and on the off chance she reads this I need to be covered.

Whether it was intramural sports with my Tau Delt brothers, social events and dances at the chapter house, or watching the Bears win the Super Bowl in January 1986, the great moments inevitably lead back to my experiences as a member of Pi Lambda Phi.

When asked why I sit on the International Executive Council, the answer is always because I believe I received more from Pi Lambda Phi than I may ever hope to give back. I know many of you reading this had a similar experience. I hear from many of the volunteers when they see the difference made with undergraduates and other alumni.

I want to encourage and ask you to get involved. The Council will soon be approving a new strategic plan that will help us set goals and guide us as we lead our beloved fraternity into the 2020's. One of the most important new elements of the plan is to improve our volunteer opportunities.

As such, the International Headquarters has shifted the responsibilities for Patrick Spanner, Director of Operations & Development, to be dedicated primarily to alumni communication/involvement. I encourage you to read the update from our Executive Director to learn more about Patrick's new role and other exciting updates from the Headquarters.

As we continue to grow our chapters and our undergraduate membership, our alumni participation needs to grow. We realize it is vitally important to keep new alumni brothers, as well as our existing alumni brothers informed and involved. I sincerely hope that you will take advantage of these opportunities and become more involved whether with your chapter, a chapter close to you as an advisor, or even with us at the IEC.

Please reach out to our staff: Ian Lowe, Executive Director, or Patrick Spanner if you have a desire to seek out opportunities. More information can be found on the website; www.pilambdaphi.org.

As I mentioned earlier, the Council, Foundation, and professional staff have been collaborating on a strategic plan that we expect to announce at the beginning of 2018.

We will be moving from strategic planning to execution of that plan. For those alumni who want to give back to an organization that has given them much, I invite your participation in the planning and delivery of growing Pi Lambda Phi.

Fraternally,
Dan Scott, C.K., President
International Executive Council

FROM the EF PRESIDENT

Brothers, I hope summer brought you relaxation and time with family and friends. For the Educational Foundation, summer brought the opportunity to reflect on the past fiscal year, which was filled with many successes. Before we look to the future, I want to share some highlights from last year.

In fiscal year 2016-17 (ended June 30, 2017) the Educational Foundation:

- Raised $89,328 in unrestricted and restricted gifts,
- Awarded 17 scholarships totaling $23,500 to undergraduate brothers,
- Repealed and replaced our Bylaws in December 2016,
- Adopted multiple new policies including, Financial Controls, Conflict of Interest, Indemnification and Grant Making,
- Awarded Louis J. Fox '61, PA Gamma Sigma, the Big Pi Award.

At Pilam's Convention in August, I had the opportunity to speak with many undergraduate brothers. What I heard from them was that Pilam's Creed and mission to eliminate prejudice is resonating on college campuses more than ever. Pilam, in their opinion, has a unique opportunity to develop young men to be the leaders college campuses and the world want and need.

However, our undergraduate brothers also shared how much they need help. Due to the ever-increasing cost of college, our brothers are seeing more and more of their chapter members leaving the organization or college because they cannot afford the cost. Additionally, our undergraduate brothers want and need more conferences and workshops to help them to develop the skills needed to Lead like a Pilam.

Though the past year brought many successes, the Educational Foundation and its Trustees are not resting on our laurels. Pilam is doing everything it can to meet the needs of our undergraduates, utilizing the limited resources we have. It is not enough. We as alumni, through the Educational Foundation, must do more to help our brothers!

To provide the scholarships and training our undergraduate brothers need, the Educational Foundation needs your help. As you decide where to make an impact philanthropically this year, please think about how a gift to the Pi Lambda Phi Educational Foundation can impact our brothers. To give, go to www.pilambdaphi.org/donation.

Thank you to the alumni donors and volunteers who helped make 2016-17 a good year. We will do everything we can to make this a great year for the Educational Foundation and Pi Lambda Phi.

Fraternally Yours,
Shawn Upchurch, C.K., President
Educational Foundation

Your Donations

Your first taste of significant responsibility may have come from Pi Lambda Phi. Your life has probably been shaped by this experience. You grew and matured because of it. You formed friendships that have lasted a lifetime. Please give today to assure that another generation of undergraduate Brothers will have the same opportunities.

Through the years, all of us have seen deserving undergraduate Brothers be a part of this Fraternity but also struggle because of merely not having enough money to cope with ever rising tuition costs.

There are two ways to give; either online via credit card, or by mail with a check. Your generous donation can make an impact today!

FROM the EXEC. DIRECTOR

Fratres & friends,

I write to you with updates on the year in review, excitement toward the year to come, and with an announcement about career opportunities within Pi Lambda Phi's Headquarters. It is an exciting time for Pi Lambda Phi and I am honored to continue serving this great organization as Executive Director.

August and our annual Convention represents an "Alpha" and an "Omega" for our fraternity. We prepare for a new year via training with our undergraduates and look eagerly toward the start of school, but not without first taking pause to recognize the accomplishments of the prior year. See page 9 for a full recap of Convention and some of last year's accomplishments.

The Year Ahead

We look toward the school year with great excitement and optimism. A few of the areas and opportunities we are most anticipating include the return of our chapter at Virginia Commonwealth University, the growth of our Chapter Services team within the headquarters staff, and initiatives to better engage our alumni with opportunities to reconnect with Pi Lambda Phi.

Virginia Commonwealth University Recolonization

We are thrilled to be returning to Virginia Commonwealth University. Well-rounded students who desire to build a values-based fraternity, develop themselves as leaders, and seek lifelong friendships with similar men will be our target. Senior Expansion Coordinator Orrin Webb will lead the project. If you are willing to volunteer your assistance, please email us at headquarters@pilambdaphi.org. To follow the progress of the recolonization, follow along on Facebook.

Doubling Down on Chapter Services

Investing in our undergraduate students' personal development and working to ensure each and every chapter's longevity is at the forefront of our Chapter Services team agenda. We have grown our staff and have identified key areas of focus for the coming year that will help provide our students and chapters with an even more fulfilling Pi Lambda Phi experience.

- Annalise Sinclair joins Billy Bernard as part of our Chapter Services team. They look forward to visiting chapters, coaching executive boards, and helping all our chapters and individual members improve.
- Two initiatives we will begin developing include a multi-year leadership program for undergraduates, and a chapter accreditation program that will enable chapters and advisors to have a clearer picture of the chapter's strengths and opportunities for improvement.

Alumni Development

Seasoned staff member Patrick Spanner has assumed more responsibilities with alumni development. From identifying and developing volunteers, to producing resources for advisory boards, to helping alumni groups formally establish associations, there's much we can and want to do to help better engage alumni brothers and give them greater opportunities to have meaningful interaction with Pi Lambda Phi. To learn more about serving as an advisor or establishing a chartered alumni association, please email Patrick at patrick.spanner@pilambdaphi.org.

Reinvesting in the Fraternity; Growing our Staff

We are looking for talented Pilam alumni and soon to be graduates that have a desire to grow, improve, and sustain Pi Lambda Phi. Over the coming year we desire to add the following two positions:

Director or Expansion

- Oversee strategic growth initiatives for the fraternity at new universities
- Lead and supervise team of Expansion Coordinators

Director of Educational Programs

- Create a greater and more meaningful developmental experience for Pilam members
- Develop multiyear educational and leadership programming for student members
- Generate chapter based programs to maximize chapter success and ensure longevity

Interested in learning more about these opportunities? Email us at headquarters@pilambdaphi.org.

It's an exciting time to be active and engaged with Pi Lambda Phi Fraternity. Our purpose, cause, and Creed are as relevant as ever. I look forward to soon sharing with you the successes this fall term will bring our great organization.

BIG PI SPOTLIGHT

LOUIS J. FOX '61, PA GAMMA SIGMA

Written By: Patrick Spanner '08, WA Epsilon Alpha

Success comes in many forms and from many sources. For Brother Louis J. Fox, 1960 initiate of Pi Lambda Phi's Pennsylvania Gamma Sigma Chapter at the University of Pittsburgh, success came from one simple lesson he learned in the Fraternity: the value and importance of relationships.

Born in Hazleton, PA, Louis grew up in the small coal mining town of Pottsville, PA. As he neared his high school graduation with plans to attend West Point and become a doctor, Louis began to question his decision after realizing he would have to be in school and serve in the military well into his forties. Louis, who still aspired to be a doctor, then began searching for a different university to attend. When he learned that Dr. Jonas Salk, the American medical researcher who had discovered and developed the first successful polio vaccine, taught at the University of Pittsburgh, Louis' decision was made.

In the fall of 1960, Louis enrolled in his freshman year at Pitt. During his first semester, Louis decided to go out for fraternity rush and explore numerous fraternities on campus. However, Louis' Jewish faith limited him to the three fraternities that would accept Jews. One was Pilam. During the first rush party he attended at PA Gamma Sigma's longtime chapter house at 225 N. Dithridge Street, he immediately knew Pilam was the place for him.

"Pilam was a diverse house, with members of many different backgrounds and mentalities. I appreciated the Fraternity's history as the first non-sectarian fraternity, which the Chapter embraced," shared Fox as he reflected on why he joined Pilam.

As a pledge, Louis began learning the value of relationships and brotherhood. The relationships he formed with Michael London, Robert Moses, Howard Drucker, and Jim Packtor, four fellow pledges, would impact the rest of Louis' life.

"I've known Louis for over 50 years, starting with our Freshman year at Pitt," shared Brother Robert Moses. "Most of his attributes, characteristics, qualities that I've observed then are still evident 50 years later. As an example, he had an attitude of confidence, supported people and causes he felt important at that time, and always was a cheerleader for his friends."

Louis, who describes himself as "direct, loyal, and having little patience for b.s.," is also known as a skilled negotiator, a skill that Louis refined during his undergraduate Pilam years. One example of Louis' abilities to negotiate and persistence comes from his sophomore year, during which he and Robert lived in an apartment above a dry cleaner whose owner happened to be his landlord.

"Louis never stopped trying to negotiate to get a reduction in the rent, or free dry cleaning or something, anything," shared Brother Michael London during his introduction speech about Louis at the 2017 Presidential Awards Banquet. "He was insanely persistent, continuing to ask long after mortals would have given up... Louis doesn't think in terms of what's not possible, and he goes about it in a way that no one ever gets upset with him."

Following Louis' graduation from Pitt in 1964 with a B.A. with a focus in pre-law, he attended law school at Boston University. Upon graduating in 1968, Louis, who had always had a passion for planes and becoming a pilot, joined the United States Air Force and attended flight school, becoming a 1st lieutenant navigator. Louis proudly served his country in the Air Force for one year of active duty and six in the reserves.

After completing his year of active duty, Louis was admitted to practice law in Massachusetts, Washington D.C. Federal Courts, and before the United States Supreme Court. He practiced law at Gadsby & Hannah, which was a well-respected law firm in Boston. Two years into his career as an attorney, during a closing, which was made up of 18 lawyers and the two principals, Louis realized that practicing law was not his passion. Being in a role similar to the principals he observed in the room, was.

institutional salesman. In 1974, Louis accepted an offer to join one of the premier precious metals trading firms in the world at the time, J. Aron & Co. His negotiation skill combined with his ability to build relationships enabled Louis to rise quickly through the ranks and become a Vice President. Following the acquisition of J. Aron & Co. by Goldman Sachs in 1981, Louis worked as a Vice President for Goldman until 1984.

In 1984, Louis left Goldman Sachs, joining Gerald Metals, Inc. as their Senior Vice President for the company's precious metals group. During his fifteen years with Gerald Metals, Louis helped build the company's precious metals group into one of the most respected in the commodity trading industry. A respected leader in the industry himself, Louis was one of the founders and Director of the Seabridge Gold Board, and a member of the North American Palladium and Southern Era Platinum and Diamond Mines Boards.

"When I formed Seabridge Gold in October 1999, the first person I contacted to be a Director was Louis Fox, having seen him in action over the years at Gerald Metals as a skilled negotiator," shared Rudi Fronk, Chairman and CEO of Seabridge Gold. "I know for a fact that Seabridge would not be where it is today without Louis' involvement and fingerprints all over it. He made me a better negotiator and student of finance... Even though he is retired from the Board, he is someone I speak with on a regular basis as a true mentor."

Louis retired from Gerald Metals in 1999. Shortly thereafter, his life was changed. In December of 1999, while at his home in Florida, he noticed the vision in his right eye was cloudy. After being evaluated by an ophthalmologist, Louis was informed that he had suffered a central retinal vein occlusion (CRVO) in his eye, and that nothing could be done to save his vision. Only a couple years later, Louis' left eye suffered an CRVO as well.

As a person who does not believe in the word "no", Louis was not going to accept that nothing could be done to help save what was left of his vision. Louis began participating in multiple experimental treatments. Sadly, none of them worked.

Then in 2008, on a Sunday morning while at home, Louis was called into the living room where his wife, Dorothy, was watching the CBS Sunday Morning show. A segment was being aired about work at Wake Forest

University and the University of Pittsburgh on regenerative medicine. The spokesperson from Pitt shared how they wanted to develop a new form of regenerative medicine called regenerative ophthalmology.

Since his graduation in 1964, Louis had little connection with his alma mater, except for cheering on his Panthers during sporting events. After seeing the broadcast though, Louis began making calls to people at the University of Pittsburgh Medical Center for Innovation in Restorative Medicine. After many conversations about the new Center for Vision Restoration that had been established and building relationships with those leading it, Louis pledged a gift of $3 million with the conditions that he would “not be passively involved” and that he wanted the work and research to be available to patients of the Center so that it could benefit as many people who were visually impaired as possible.

For his generous gift and commitment to helping people who are visually impaired, the Center was renamed the Louis J. Fox Center for Vision Restoration.

Through all of Louis’ life, his highs and lows, there remained four constants, the four pledge brothers, Michael, Robert, Howard, and Jim, with which he built lifelong relationships. Even though the five had careers that scattered them across the country, the bonds of brotherhood could never be broken. Visiting each other and taking trips together with their spouses, who have also become close friends, has been a regular occurrence for the men.

Sadly, in 2002, Brother Jim Packtor passed away. After his passing, Louis and the other three collectively purchased a bench and had it placed next to Jim’s grave. They had three words engraved into the bench. Three words which they had all learned during their time at Pitt as a Pilam, and had come to appreciate even more throughout their lives. Engraved in the bench is the phrase “Brother Mine Forever.”

As Louis reflected on his life, career, and time as a Pilam, he shared that he was most proud of the joy he experienced when working with people and making things happen. “People are critically important because people make decisions,” stated Louis. He went on to share that having the ability to build relationships, similar to the ones he made with his pledge brothers and those whom he worked with throughout his career was the key to success.

When asked what advice he would give our current undergraduate brothers, Louis encouraged them to “be yourself, and don’t have unreasonable expectations. Evaluate and appreciate what you have, but then work hard for what you want.” Louis went on to add that we need to “put away our phones and other technology and get back to communicating person to person. It is much harder to build relationships when you aren’t face to face with people.”

For his successful career, impact he has made on the world, and lifelong commitment to his Pilam brothers, Brother Louis J. Fox received the Big Pi Award on Saturday, August 5, 2017 at the Presidential Awards Banquet held during Pi Lambda Phi’s 122nd Anniversary Leadership Convention in Pittsburgh, PA.

Congratulations Brother Fox on your award, and thank you for being a shining example of what it means to be a “Brother Mine Forever.”

2017 CONVENTION

Written By: Annalise Sinclair, Coordinator of Chapter Services

Over 170 undergraduates, alumni, and friends of Pilam took over the City of Champions during the 122nd Anniversary Pi Lambda Phi Leadership Convention from August 3rd to August 6th, 2017 at the DoubleTree Pittsburgh – Green Tree in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. Convention was a time for undergraduate and alumni brothers to gather to celebrate the past year's successes, learn vital skills and information for the future, and engage in brotherhood and camaraderie.

To kick off Convention, undergraduate brothers had the opportunity to show off their sportsmanship through the "Pilam Olympics". Rotating between games like ultimate frisbee, soccer, and volleyball, brothers got to know one another and work on their teamwork skills. Following "Pilam Olympics" brothers jumped right into the educational curriculum of Convention with a full schedule of sessions on topics including risk management, academic programming, budgeting, and recruitment. Additionally, on Friday morning, brothers were given the opportunity to explore how to be active champions of the Elimination of Prejudice through two programs, Allies & Advocates and Ally Bootcamp, which were facilitated by Diversity Council. These programs, sponsored by the Elimination of Prejudice Foundation, explored the ways that brothers can start conversations around diversity, privilege, and prejudice on their campuses.

Saturday morning featured the House of Delegates meeting, chaired by the 2016-2017 Undergraduate Representative Juan Lopez '13, FL Delta. During this meeting, several key topics were discussed and Alex Winstead '16, FL Delta Upsilon, was elected the 2017-2018 International Executive Council Undergraduate Councilmen. Alex will serve on the IEC as a voice for our undergraduate brothers. Concurrently, the International Executive Council met and approved the chapters for two colonies: VA Lambda Kappa at Roanoke University and VA Alpha Psi at Christopher Newport University.

Throughout Saturday afternoon, 19 Chapter Advisors were offered their own educational programming track to discuss opportunities to better serve and support undergraduate chapters. Facilitated by various members of International Headquarters Staff, these sessions addressed some of the critical challenges facing fraternity men today. To conclude the educational programming of convention, undergraduate and alumni brothers came together for the closing keynote address delivered by Vince Fabra of the Catalyst Agency who asked brothers to "Make Everyday Matter". This dynamic keynote tied together the various themes presented throughout convention, such as personal development and brotherhood bonds, and challenged brothers

In total, more than 115 awards were give out to chapters, undergraduates, and alumni for their achievements this past year. The evening concluded with a round of Fraternity songs.

CHAPTER SPOTLIGHT

RUTGERS & SALISBURY RE-CHARTER

Written By: Jonathan Finnerty '15, NJ Alpha Lambda

Maryland Kappa Delta of Salisbury University and New Jersey Alpha Lambda of Rutgers University - New Brunswick successfully chartered on May 6th and April 22nd in 2017. Meeting all of the requirements set forth by their respective Universities and the rigorous challenges set by IHQ, both proved their dedication and fraternal spirit.

MD Kappa Delta was re-colonized in the Fall of 2010. After seven years of the chartering process, MD Kappa Delta was officially chartered on May 6th, 2017. The host was the Re-Founding Rex, Zack Kline '10. Having graduated, Kline was best known for keeping brothers engaged and committed to the chartering process. Alumni were also present at the banquet, all of whom were essential in the chartering process. IHQ Senior Expansion Coordinator and brother of MD Kappa Delta, Orrin Webb '11, presented the ceremonial gavel after giving a speech that encompassed almost the entire experience of the MD Kappa Delta re-founding. The ceremony was also attended by members of Salisbury University's Fraternity and Sorority Affairs. Sara Lowery, Coordinator of Student Life, gave great praise to Pilam and MD Kappa Delta in her speech. Lowery expressed how Pilam was a positive piece of the Greek community.

NJ Alpha Lambda was re-colonized in the Fall of 2015 at Rutgers University - New Brunswick. After two years of rigorously completing tasks set by IHQ and Rutgers University, NJ Alpha Lambda was awarded their charter on April 22nd, 2017. The host of the chartering banquet was former Marshal, Jonathan Finnerty '15. Also in attendance were members of Rutgers University's Office of Fraternity and Sorority Affairs. IHQ Executive Director, Ian Lowe '05, praised NJ Alpha Lambda for its persistence and dedication in his speech addressing the charter. Re-Founding Rex, Paul Caravaglia '15, said of the chartering experience, "This experience has truly embodied the quote by Kovner, joining a fraternity truly doesn't mean anything, but after two years of working for it, sweating for it, and loving it all the way through, we at NJ Alpha Lambda finally have something; a brotherhood represented by our newly won charter." In addition, current Rex, Saad Mughal '15 wished to express his thanks to IHQ and the Chapter Advisory Board for always assisting and guiding our chapter.

Both MD Kappa Delta and NJ Alpha Lambda have proven themselves to the Pilam standards. In the future, both newly chartered chapters will carry the values and Creed of Pi Lambda Phi in hopes that a new generation of brothers will further the cause of the elimination of prejudice. Pilam welcomes both chapters and wishes them the best on this next step in their fraternal journey.
